

febi ProKit – now for commercial vehicles too!

As febi bilstein is a specialist for both personal cars and commercial vehicles, the range of ProKits was also expanded to cover the truck sector at the end of last year. The extensive range, which includes over 1,800 ProKits in the personal car sector, has been expanded to include more than 650 complete sets for commercial vehicles.

The advantages are, of course, the same. The king pin set febi 06015 provides an example of the considerable role played by quality. The king pins, bushings, bearings, etc. within it are safety-related wear parts, whereby a lack of quality can lead to failure of the steering and impairment of braking.

febi bilstein manufactures its own king pins and axle bushings at its Ennepetal site, and therefore guarantees precisely tailored production and strict quality checks.

You can access the new febi ProKit website, where you can also download the latest product catalogues, at: www.febiProKit.com

Subject to technical changes